DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 1-3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Hawthorne et al. (US 2,997,973) in view of McCullough, Jr. et al. (US 4,897,303). Hawthorne discloses flexible barge that comprises a tubular structure. The tubular structure is elongated (column 2, lines 15-16). The structure is flexible and made of fabric (column 1, lines 20-22). The fabric has a first inside and a second outside. The structure has front and rear ends (figure 2). The vessel comprises means (12) for sealing the ends. The vessel comprises means (20) for emptying and filling. Hawthorne discloses that the fabric is proofed to make it impervious (column 1, lines 68-72). Hawthorne discloses that the buoyancy is supplied by the liquid contents of the vessel. Hawthorne does not disclose a thermoset or thermoplastic coating that renders the fabric buoyant. McCullough discloses coating fibers of an article with a thermoset or thermoplastic coating for the purpose of providing buoyancy (column 1, lines 10-13). Therefore it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify Hawthorne by adding the coating taught by McCullough. The motivation would be to enhance the buoyancy of the fabric so that it could be used with fluidisable cargo that does not provide sufficient buoyancy on its own.

3. Regarding claim 2, Hawthorne discloses the fabric is woven. The woven fabric will necessarily have sides formed by stitching points.

4. Regarding claim 3, the woven fabric of Hawthorne contains yarns and voids. McCullough teaches curing the thermoplastic coating. The thermoplastic coating of the modified invention will therefore fill the voids.

Allowable Subject Matter

5. Claim 4 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

6. The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter: the prior art does not teach or suggest the claimed combination specifically comprising the two different thermoplastic coatings that render the fabric buoyant.

Response to Arguments

7. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-4 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

8. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Lederman (US 3,885,077) discloses a fabric coated with rubber compound with fillers to give an overall density of less than 0.99.

9. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
